

In seventh grade literature, students are currently reading The Giver by Lois Lowry. The novel is based on an Utopian society that values “sameness” above all things. In order for students to analyze the aspects that make up a Utopia, they were asked to design their own and make a PowerPoint presentation that advertises their Utopia. In the pictures below, you will see students presenting their Utopia in a PowerPoint presentation trying to encourage the rest of the class to want to join.
